Give to the Department of Mathematics and Statistics

Please consider making a donation to the Department of Mathematics and Statistics. Your contributions provide critical support to our faculty and students in various ways, including:

- Research travel and career development
- Colloquium and seminar series, and special series such as the Peter Hilton Memorial Lecture
- Student scholarships and awards for excellence
- Financial aid for students in need
- Hosting academic conferences, such as the Zassenhaus Groups and Friends Conference and the Binghamton University Graduate Combinatorics, Algebra, and Topology Conference (BUGCAT)
- Supporting activities of student organizations

There are two accounts that you can contribute to.

- Endowment Account: Endowment funds will be invested to generate returns that support the above initiatives continuously into the future.
- General Purpose Account: Gifts to General Purpose Account provides immediate support to the our faculty and students.
