

I got my PhD in mathematics under supervision of Gerard Ben Arous at NYU in 2008.

So, my math genealogy is French-oriented.
According to Math Genealogy Project, it goes like this:

$$ \uparrow $$

Robert Azencott

$$ \uparrow $$

Jacques Neveu 	$\$ \leftarrow \$ Robert Fortet 	$\$ \leftarrow \$ Maurice Fréchet
--	--	--

$$ \uparrow $$

Jacques Hadamard 	$\$ \leftarrow \$ Émile Picard 	$\$ \leftarrow \$ Gaston Darboux
---	---	---

My PhD in Economics was written under supervision of Robert W. Rosenthal who was a mathematically trained economist and who worked in game theory. He taught me a lot about doing research.

On this side, my genealogy eventually goes to Germany.
